DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is responsive to the amendment filed 26 July 2006.

Response to Amendment

2. Applicant's arguments filed 26 July 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments do not comply with 37 CFR 1.111(c) because they do not clearly point out the patentable novelty which he or she thinks the claims present in view of the state of the art disclosed by the references cited or the objections made. Specifically, the Applicant argues that the Office Action does not specify which signals in Chu corresponding to the limitations in Claim 3. The cited sections of Chu (especially fig. 17) clearly show a data processing system receiving four inputs from external system 70: data D_{IN} is to be processed by the processing blocks; clock Clk_I is for synchronizing the other three inputs; and control signals enable En_I and Reset. Enable En_I and/or Reset corresponds to "a system control signal synchronous with a clock". Request signal R_I from arbitration sub-circuit 76 corresponds to a "handshaking control signal based on said system control signal". As Chu teaches the supposedly missing structure of the circuit in Claim 3, Claim 3 is anticipated by Chu.
3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
4. The rejections are respectfully maintained and reproduced infra for applicant's convenience.
5. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Chu, U.S. Patent No. 5,920,899.

As per claim 3, Chu discloses a data processing system for processing data via a plurality of processing blocks, comprising:

a plurality of block control circuits provided corresponding to said respective processing blocks (figs. 1, 7 & 15, stage controllers corresponding to data registers and function circuits), said block control circuits controlling corresponding processing blocks by a clock synchronization respectively and transferring a handshaking control signal with other block control circuits, thereby controlling a data transfer between said processing blocks by self-synchronization type handshaking (figs. 1, 7 & 15, stage controllers exchange request and acknowledge signals to control latching at each stage), wherein said data processing system further includes an arbitration circuit for interfacing with an external system (fig. 17, comprising elements 74-78), said arbitration circuit transferring a system control signal synchronous with a clock with said external system, thereby creating said handshaking control signal based on said system control signal (figs. 18 & 19, col. 10, lines 19-59).

6. Claims 2-6 and 7-10 are allowed.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
